- They hold more information than do business cards, so you can include additional contact information. Using color well in your brochure enhances your message visually and emphasizes specific points. Using a color scheme that is consistent and pleasing provides a better experience for your reader than one which is too loud, busy, or difficult to read.

The most important information is included here on the inside panels. Use these panels to introduce your organization and describe specific products or services. This text should be brief and should entice the reader to want to know more about the product or service. Once you've created great business cards, it's time to make brochures to show off your company. Brochures let you showcase your business--your products or services and your purpose. They hold more information than do business cards, so you can include additional contact information and others. Using color well in your brochure enhances your message visually and emphasizes specific points.
