

Product Development Process

Product development process is series of steps for imagination, design and commercialization of a product.

A product is a set of benefits offered for exchange and can be tangible or intangible.

Following is the simple illustration of the process, this template provide a method to use smart list to create a process diagram. You can modify and add more details as you want.

